

VIDA Projects Spring 2021

Doing civic engagement work in the time of Covid-19 is very different, but we think it can be great for keeping you having a sense of connection and purpose in these hard times. Some of the projects below are straightforward. Some ask you to show up and distribute food or provide other forms of direct assistance. The advocacy and campaign projects all have virtual options, such as phone banking, letter writing, and attending virtual advocacy meetings. Others will require you to use a bit more initiative and take some leadership to make a project happen. We hope that you are able to find the right project for your interests. VIDA office staff will be around to guide you on how to do your project if you decide to do something that requires more leadership and initiative than you are used to exercising. You might want to do a project at a team with some classmates so you can have someone to talk it through with.

The pages below are organized into the following categories:

Advocacy and Organizing:

Higher Education for Ab540/ Undocumented Students
HEFAS is an educational student resource center and program that provides educational resources, reduces financial stress, and creates a safe learning environment for all students with an emphasis on undocumented/ AB-540 information. HEFAS is dedicated to helping students build their leadership skills, promote social change and advocate for higher education! Our vision is to provide students, parents, educators, and staff the tools to empower students regardless of their status and the barriers that may exist. Volunteers will: help support some of the online services HEFAS will continue to provide for the immigrant community.	Contact: ab540hefas@gmail.com deanza.edu/vida/hefas

De Anza Renters Rights

Join a movement to fight back against skyrocketing rents, unjust evictions and displacement of tenants! Housing is a human right! Participants will attend meetings and join some of the most influential non-profits in San Jose in spreading awareness, gathering votes and convincing city council members to approve measures to stabilize rents in San Jose and make the Silicon Valley affordable to live in.

Volunteers will: Canvass and petition, attend housing related meetings, meet with council members, come out to rallies, participate in workshops and much more!

Student for Environment and Equity at De Anza

SEED aims to help transform De Anza and the surrounding area's policies and laws in order to ensure that clean air, land, water, and food are accessible to all inhabitants in our community. We intend to do this by educating and growing sustainability/ eco-friendly awareness on campus by hosting workshops and working to amend current De Anza practices to minimize the environmental impact of our students. We believe that the time to act is now, to ensure not only the success of current students but for the success of future students to come.

Volunteers will: Help advocate for environmental policies to take place at De Anza and the surrounding area by promoting petitions, making classroom announcements, network with local environmental leaders, attending weekly meetings and any SEED endorsed events such as marches and protests. Volunteers at any level of expertise and majors are welcomed and encouraged to participate

SIREN

SIREN is the largest immigrant rights organization in Silicon Valley, they service the community through 3 different components: 1. Legal Services 2. Policy Advocacy 3. Community Organizing Ideal volunteers should have a strong interest in learning about immigration law, immigrant rights, and policy. Position could involve working with local elected officials on strengthening protection policies for immigrants in Santa Clara County.

Volunteers will: Help with outreach and citizenship/DACA free workshops and more! Great opportunity for immigrant students, or children of immigrants. Spanish or Vietnamese language preferred but not required.

Find a cause

Find a cause you care about and research who is doing what on that cause, and find a way to help. You can spread the word through social media, do fundraising through your networks, reach out to politicians, and asking friends and classmates to do the same. You can work with the VIDA office via Zoom for support and to have your hours verified.

Work on a Policy

Find a policy goal that you care about and then do a political campaign. There is so much in the world that is in flux right now and governments are doing a lot. It is actually a great time to advocate for things related to Covid 19: an end to evictions, paid time off, unemployment insurance, investment in a Green New Deal, better health care, unemployment benefits for undocumented people, access to health care for undocumented people, releasing people from immigration detention camps, moratoriums on foreclosures or turning off water and utilities, etc.

Here is some general advice for doing a political campaign (but VIDA can help via Zoom!):

1. Find a goal that your thing is achievable, like helping to pass some sort of a bill that a larger group is already working on.
2. Do research to find out what others are doing on the issues and to learn about the issue.
3. Pick a target, someone who has influence over the thing you are trying to impact who you think might listen to you. Politicians are always the most responsive to the people they represent. See list of elected officials below.
4. Develop arguments to influence that politician.
5. Get others to also contact them with that message. You can get others via your social media networks, asking students in other classes, doing an online petition, writing a letter to the editor of a paper and more!
6. For help developing a strategy you can use Leading Change Chart at <http://www.deanza.edu/vida/LeadingChangeChart.png>

Our City Forest

Our City Forest is San Jose's leading urban forestry non-profit organization. Our mission is to cultivate a green and healthy Silicon Valley by engaging the community in the protection, growth, and maintenance of our urban ecosystem, with a special focus on our urban forest. We believe in the power of trees to transform homes, communities, and cities. We believe in the power of people to help us achieve this needed transformation.

Students can participate in volunteering with Our City Forest on Tuesdays - Saturdays. We have a variety of volunteer opportunities - they can attend our nursery workdays (help out with various tasks at our nursery and learn about the tree and shrub species we carry) or help out on our tree care and watering routes (head out into the field with OCF Americorps members and learn how to prune/water our trees that have been planted throughout San Jose).

Office of Equity

The Office of Equity, Social Justice and Multicultural Education promotes – through programs and services – an academic, cultural and social environment that provides equity, social justice and academic success for all members of the De Anza College campus community. It supports the district and college missions, which consider diversity an essential component of student education in the 21st century. The Equity Office takes this charge seriously. We have expanded our mission of fostering a climate of healthy diversity that values individual and group differences and respects the perspectives of others by working to eliminate institutional oppression or barriers that perpetuate inequity, injustice, and mono-cultural education.

Volunteer Tasks: Document History of the Office, Create content for social media, newsletter, and LibGuides, Create video stories, Outreach through class and event presentations, Co host virtual hours

Co create workshops to learn about equity, Learn popular education frameworks, Create visuals to promote equity values online

1500 stories

1500 Stories is a collaborative art and digital storytelling project about economic inequality in the U.S. At its core is open-ended, in-depth interviews with people at different economic positions about what their lives are like. These interviews get edited down into short narratives that live on the 1500 Stories website to educate people about economic inequality and build empathy and community.

Volunteer Tasks:

Transcribe audio interviews collected in New Jersey

Conduct, record and transcribe interviews right now (through Skype, for example) about how people at different economic positions are experiencing the COVID-19 crisis.

If you are an experienced art or music maker, consider reaching out also. The project director will work with you on creative projects related to economic inequality.

Sacred Heart Community Service

PANTRY: We see about 400 families a day so we URGENTLY need volunteers ON-SITE to make food boxes for Sacred Heart Members. We especially need volunteers from 11:30a to 2:30p and 2:30p to 4p. Safety measures in place to protect you.

PHONE BANKING: From now until the elections, we will be calling and texting eligible voters (in multiple languages) and letting them know about why it's important to vote, and what policies we believe will make a difference in our communities. We will train and provide scripts. Please fill out the form

RESOURCE CALLS: During these difficult times, we are doing wellness calls to all of our Members and connecting them to resources available at Sacred Heart and the county. You'll get to learn in detail about each Sacred Heart program and other resources in the county.

Amigos de Guadalupe

Amigos de Guadalupe is currently taking volunteers for work in the office, remote/virtual work, and a hybrid of both. Our office has 3 primary focus areas of work: housing, education, and immigration. All 3 programs need volunteers to assist with a wide range of work including case work, research projects, artistic projects like working on flyers and handouts, data entry, and even translation work. Our Operations Team also has many opportunities for students to assist with our administrative work in the office as well--if the student is interested in learning about how a nonprofit runs and the kinds of work that help keep the organization running day to day.
